WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

A Cavalcade of Horsemen on the Warpath Last Night

A gentleman from this city, who was called to the country last night, had an experience that for a time caused his hair to project like the quills of a porcupine.

A short distance this side of Murphysville, in a lonely spot where the umbrageous foliage reflected phantom figures on the pike, he ran into a cavalcade of mounted horsemen all drawn up in military array on each side of the pike.

The silent riders of the night did not attempt to interfere with his travel and the town man did not stop to ask questions as to the assemblage of the clan or whither bound.

Further on he confronted four men sitting on the porch at Prather's store well armed Police Court.

Judge Whitaker had a full house when the Officer rapped for order in the Police Court yesterday afternoon. It was a morbid gathering, however, with an appetite for salacious tid-bits and morsels of scandal and no doubt great was the disappointment when the fair defendants plead guilty to a disorderly charge and thereby saved themselves from exposing their naughty conduct of the night previous at the L. and N. Depot.

Onie Lauderback, Julia Fryman, William Paul and another young man plead guilty to disorderly conduct charge and were assessed $10.50 each for their fun.

Lash Gill of the East End, for whipping his patient wife, was given $15.50, a very small penalty considering the offense.

In default of liquidation they were sent to jail, where they will get three square meals a day for the next ten days at the expense of taxpayers.

HONORED KENTUCKIAN

General William L. Marshall a Big Man in Public Life

Mason county people in general were glad to learn of the honor that recently came to one of her native sons, General William L. Marshall, the new Chief of Engineers in the United States Army.

The Louisville Times Washington Correspondent pays the following compliment to this distinguished man—

"Kentucky never had a bigger man in public life, perhaps, than General William L. Marshall, who has just been appointed Chief of Engineers to succeed General A. McKenzie, retired. It is perfectly proper to say that there are several pounds difference between the weight of General Marshall and Judge

Taft and the difference is not in favor of the latter, either.

"General Marshall was born down in the Bluegrass in 1846. When sixteen years of age he enlisted in the Tenth Kentucky Volunteers (Union,) and served several months with credit. He was then appointed to West Point and graduated at the head of his class in 1868. He was assigned to the Corps of Engineers, which billet is given the five Cadets who lead the balance of their class. In 1907 he reached the grade of Colonel. His appointment to be Chief of Engineers carries with it the grade of Brigadier.

His appointment to be Chief of Engineers carries with it the grade of Brigadier.

"General Marshall has served as Instructor at West Point and led several exploring expeditions in the then far West. He discovered gold in the celebrated San Miguel basin, in California, now called Marshall basin in his honor, and discovered the Marshall Pass through the Rockies.

"Among the engineering operations to his credit are levees on the Mississippi; the Hennepin Canal, of which he was the Chief Engineer; improvement of Lake Michigan harbors and of the harbor at New York, on which work he is now engaged. General Marshall is enamored of the latter work and he accepted promotion to Chief of Engineers on condition that he should be allowed to spend Friday and Saturday of each week in New York, superintending the deepening and widening of Ambrose channel, which he proposes to give a depth of forty feet and a width of 1,000 feet.

"President Roosevelt came near to driving General Marshall out of the Army by that order which directed that all officers who were not able to take the horsemanship test should be retired. Colonel Marshall prepared to send in his resignation, and would have done so had not the President been induced to modify the order so as to allow officers physically unqualified to ride horseback to be assigned to work where riding would not be necessary."

Irish potatoes bid fair to be the money-producing crop which will take the place of tobacco in the Bluegrass region. It is estimated that 50,000 acres of the rich soil have been planted in potatoes this year as compared with 15,000 acres in the preceding year. Until last season potatoes had been considered only a garden crop, being limited generally to the needs of the family of the producer.

The White Sale Reigns

To view the stock of Muslin Underwear here you wouldn't think a week's busy selling has been credited to this sale. The range of prices is intact and the choice of styles unimpaired. The past week has proved several interesting things about this sale:

FIRST—It's the largest movement of the sort in Maysville, in point of space denoted to it.

SECOND—It presents the best variety of new and tasteful designs in garments, embroidery and lace.

THIRD—It offers the best values at any price you may choose for comparison.

Broad, sweeping statements—don't think them brag and bluster—the garments themselves and your own judgment of values will confirm our assertions.

Here is the bulletin-board of the sale. For convincing details see the stock.

Combination Garments $1.98 to $4.

Corset Covers 12½c to $3.

Nightgowns 50c to $4.

Skirts 98c to $7½.

SKIRT NEWS

Handsome black silk petticoats, made for us during the manufacturer's dull season—hence qualities of extraordinary value for $3.98. A special feature is the fitted top, which is a welcome point in this day of tight dress skirts. The flounce is a deep sectional one trimmed in strap bands. A double under ruffle for dust and wear protection is another good point. If you are interested in rare skirt values, investigate.

"If You Can't Be Good, Be Careful," is the newest song hit. If you can't be careful you're a bad boy.

If there was an Olympian talking match, WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN would walk off loaded down with a carload of palms.

REPUBLICANS of Kentucky are presenting a united front for TAFT and will make the coming campaign a warm one. Senator BRADLEY and Governor WILLSON will stump the State for TAFT.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW looks like 30 cents compared with this year's Georgia peach crop. It will require 7,000 freight cars to pull the peaches out of Georgia this year. Besides, she'll have 10,000 carloads of watermelons.

THIS gush about the evil of contributions to campaign funds makes us weary. The money may be wrongfully used, and doubtless is in some cases, but there has not been a time when both parties did not raise all the funds they could. There is an old story about the pot calling the kettle black.—Winchester Sun-Sentinel.

A DISPATCH says that bad blood prevails in Central American Republics. Are there no other places where bad blood prevails?

CHAIRMAN FRANK H. HITCHCOCK of the Republican National Committee is no biloivator, and in reply to a question asked him as to the success of his party in November says:

And the people are also a little suspicious of the Democratic party because it has been beaten so many times. BRYAN is the boss political bungo artist of the age. If you can't take our word for it, ask WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST or THOMAS E. WATSON.

GROVER CLEVELAND's memory cries out against the cruel treatment accorded him by the Democratic Convention at Denver. The resolutions eulogizing Mr. CLEVELAND were of the stalest and perfunctory variety and not at all in harmony with the great and exalted character who was recognized as the incarnation of the spirit of the law. It is an insult to compare any other living Democrat with GROVER CLEVELAND.

PECOR

THE WOMAN WITH THE EYES

To-day she is a leader in society by right of her late husband's name and wealth, her youth, her beauty, and her sorrow. Perhaps she may marry again, and the man of her choice will be happy. Perhaps right-ly—so—she shall say?

Where she came from nobody knew. It was said Dorrick met her at a summer resort, and that was all anyone seemed to know about her. He married her for her beauty; she married him for his money and social position. I suppose both thoroughly understood the terms of the contract. He admired her much as he might have admired a fine horse, and he was proud to claim her as his own. She didn't actually hate him—he was an unfortunate encumbrance of wealth and social position. But she bore him no love.

Perhaps the last straw that broke down her endurance was when Dorrick came home drunk from some club meeting. Dorrick was not a drinking man, and this was an exceptional case. Perhaps he had been drinking too many toasts to his young wife. But it was an offense against good form—the only thing she cared about now. When Dorrick ceased to be a gentleman the last link broke.

"My dear—" he began, and then he stopped short, for he had caught her glance. She had peculiar eyes sometimes—cold, cold, penetrating eyes—gimlet eyes, an irreverent youth had once called them. Dorrick seemed to shrink up within himself beneath her gaze. Half drunk as he was, he seemed in some way fascinated—"like as if he'd been mesmerized," said Mrs. Dorrick's maid under her breath; she had been to see a professional hypnotist who had been performing at one of the music halls a few weeks before. Mrs. Dorrick overheard the remark, and it set her thinking.

The suggestion of mesmerism broke in upon her like a revelation; perhaps she had found the key to freedom. She had heard of this marvelous force that science but dimly comprehends, and she was prepared to believe wonders of it. Forthwith she set about studying it. Little by little, as she mastered the subject, she came to understand how complete is the control exercised by the mesmerist over his subjects and found that she herself possessed marked powers of fascination. Then she began to try experiments with her husband. She had no definite end in view. She wanted to gain such mastery over him as to make him entirely subservient to her will. Then she would no longer be galled by the sense that she was part of his property.

In a month she succeeded. The outward world saw no change in Dorrick or his household; but in the privacy of his home he was a different man. A single glance from his wife bereft him of will power, almost of consciousness. He was no longer a living, thinking man, but an automaton, performing her will blindly, and without the power of retaining even a shadow of remembrance if she willed he should forget. She was far too clever to let outsiders see this—even the servants never suspected it. She herself hardly knew how far-reaching was her strange power. But she had gained her point.

She began tentatively. Dorrick developed a habit of dressing a little too lightly for the season of the year, and caught cold several times. His wife scolded him for his carelessness, but to no purpose. Little by little he became more careless. He neglected to see a doctor, after catching a very severe cold, though he had been in the habit of taking the utmost care of his health. Again his wife scolded him, and sent for the doctor herself. Dorrick recovered slowly, but the effects of a severe chill had left him weaker. Then he committed the crowning imprudence of taking a cold bath in the middle of January and neglecting to dry himself thoroughly. Mrs. Dorrick scolded again, and again summoned the doctor. The doctor was angry, and took Dorrick to task sharply for his carelessness. "It's simple suicide," he said, "simple suicide!" And he left directions for Mrs. Dorrick and drove away.

He was right: he could do no good. Dorrick had thrown away his life. In about a week he fell a victim to pneumonia, and Mrs. Dorrick was free.

Miss Cartmell, the bride of scarce six months, mourned deeply for her husband, and inherited his wealth. Perhaps there was just a little genuine-ness in her sorrow; a tinge of remorse—no more. As I said, to-day she is a leader in society by right of her late husband's name and wealth, her youth, her beauty, and her sorrow. Perhaps she may marry again; this time she will not sell herself—she will not need to. And the man of her choice will be accounted happy, for no one knows of her terrible gift. Perhaps, too, rightly so accounted. Who shall say?

Perfumes Recommended.

Doctors' recommendations have contributed to the popularity of certain scents. The use of the scent is becoming really widespread, asserts a dealer in perfumes. "The doctors have pronounced in its favor," this man says, "and have recommended those of their patients who are particularly prone to catching such complaints as influenza to use scent copiously, principally by means of the spray. The odor that is most in demand is appropriately that of wood violets, springlike and refreshing."

RELIEF FOR GROWERS

Is Proposed In Franklin County and Novel Plan is Outlined

FRANKFORT, KY., July 21st.—The Board of Control of Franklin County has adopted a system by which the small grower, if in need, will be permitted to sell his tobacco.

The sale, however, must be to some grower who is a member of the Burley Tobacco Society or to some buyer who will agree to keep it in the pool.

How to Cure Indigestion

Well Known Family Physician Gives Good Advice

"When a person cannot eat ordinary food without discomfort afterward, when he has heartburn, sick headache, gas on the stomach, water brash, belches up sour food, and this condition has continued for a week or more, it certainly is time to do something and do it quickly." That's what a popular physician recently said to the writer. "First thing you know you'll have dyspepsia if you don't," said he.

The quickest and best way to regain your normal condition is to step into the drug store and buy a 50¢ bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint. It gives natural daily movement to the bowels, and that is usually where more than half the trouble lies. Then it aids digestion, sweetens the stomach, acts on the liver and is a general system tonic.

Postmaster Ridgill, of Bruceville, Tex., had such a severe attack of dyspepsia that his stomach, liver and bowels seemed almost paralyzed, but a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint relieved him and today he is well as ever. Maude Hall, Alpena, Mich., says that one bottle cured her of a very severe case of indigestion. Dr. L. Espich, Chief of Police, New Philadelphia, Ohio, says: "I find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint the best remedy for indigestion I ever used. I would not be without it." Rev. A. J. Fletcher, Rutherford, Tenn., is now 80, and yet it cured him of stomach trouble of 60 years' standing. Mrs. Mattie Crouch, Tiptonville, Tenn., cured her five months' old baby of indigestion with it, so you see that while it is so effective it will cure cases of long standing of dyspepsia and constipation in old people, it is perfectly safe for babies, and it is pleasant to take

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Not only sells the BEST and BROADEST contract, but returns LARGER dividends and therefore insures at a LOW net cost. The new 1908 policy of THE NORTHWESTERN is a marvel of completeness and convenience, as many of life's contingencies probable or possible can be met by money. It is like a will, except that it provides for the estate that it distributes. It contains large Loan and Cash values. It provides Automatic Paid-up or Extended Insurance, and for Reinstatement at any time within FIVE YEARS after lapse.

NO OTHER company offers as many or as varied OPTIONS of Settlement, under ANY or ALL of its policies combined, as THE NORTHWESTERN offers under its ONE policy. For further information apply to

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75¢. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Mrs. E. H. Reed and daughter, Mrs. Charles Reed, are visiting in Cincinnati for a few days.

Miss Tillie Lane and Miss Nannie Wright have returned, after a pleasant stay with friends at Ripley.

Little Miss Genieve Redmond of West Second street is visiting her cousin, Miss Marea Corbitt of Northfork.

Mrs. E. Jolly and Mrs. Hickman of Pleasant Valley, after spending a few days the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed of West Second street, have returned home.

Louisville's new free Public Library will be opened next Friday.

NO NEGRO

School Trustees Under New Democratic Law

FRANKFORT, KY., July 20th.—The enactment of the new County Board Bill, which will completely change the selection of School Trustees for Kentucky, has aroused many of the Negro citizens to resentment because it robs the Negro of the honor of being a School Trustee.

In a supplement to Bulletin 4 State Superintendent of Schools Crabbe issues an ultimatum to the Negro and asks whether the Negro will accept a white Trusteeship to govern their schools or force upon the members of their race the old system of three Trustees.
